

Eyes for You

Parents in a far away country are alarmed at government school policy involving "eyeball replacement therapy".

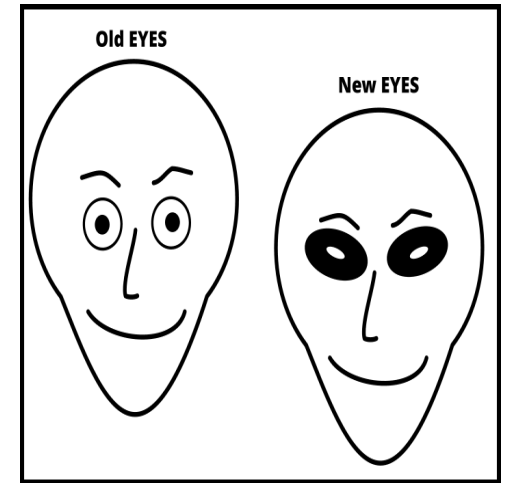

IT started at an advanced human research lab headed by "Doogie Howser" the once famed 10 year old doctor on TV. Now at age 97 Doogie has one last wish..to be awarded the Nobel Peace prize in "human arbitrary control sciences."

It would take about 30 volumes , not unlike the encyclopedia Britannica, to explain the theory with its derivative results, but at Viva Kittery, we hit what we call the " highlights" of the program.

DOOGIE had a part time job at an elementary school as a substitute science teacher after his program was canceled, but still believing he was the worlds youngest dr ever, he continued his secret research.

Quoting him from an unknown source, it was Doogie's suspicion that many students were not learning but simply guessing the answers at exam time. He said, its obvious that all students are given the same info but the grades are wildly different! Further noticing that the children's brains were "cloaked in darkness" inside their heads or cranial cavity in dr talk, it became obvious to Doogie that the only light to the brain was through the eyes alone.

When Doogie had pointed this out to a high level doctor meeting in Switzerland all the doctors jumped with joy, exclaiming .. how could we be so blind!!!!

So the project of making government issue eyeballs was started, receiving over 200 trillion in funding with absolutely no "oversight". The program was finalized just this year. Hundreds of thousands of new eyeballs are being shipped to VA clinics around this far away country now and children are being shuffled in for the new eye transplant therapy.

Doogie was somewhat hesitant to predict any direct benefits, but he said, " one way or the other its gonna make an impact. Well so do meteors for that matter.
