

Off Store Betting

A new company is being formed in the area based on extremely fine legal language and in general, the theme of the new idea called "off store betting."

Its an exciting new company offering thousands of jobs , "at home", to people who can't earn much money because of some kind of gov't allotment. A lot of politicians are betting this new opportunity will keep thousand of people busy or "off focus" until its uncovered as a weird scheme of some kind. But until that day, it's a promising new industry.

Our own Viva Kittery reporter " Nickles" Mcblum has this rare opportunity to unveil the plan.. or scheme or opportunity..whatever it turns out to be.

Here's how it works Nickles went on to explain, whenever someone buys anything from anywhere an opportunity slot opens in an app called "Keep or Return".

This "off store" betting business allows for anyone to bet whether the person they bet on keeps or returns the item. "You end up following consumers you "like" as you might do on ebay and the odds become staggering as wagering results are predicated upon buying experience. FOR instance if you are betting on someone who almost never returns something the odds are sky high if you bet return on the item and its returned. See it's simple, perfect and a new way and reason to track every single person buying anything. Nickles says it might even be endorsed by the IRS soon. Not that that makes any sense, but so what, it sounds ominous and somehow provocative to bettors.. Bettors cannot be tracked by the IRS under the new but unsigned agreement being pushed by "Keep or Return" officials.

So one question arose during the interview, so in essence, if you join this betting league you cannot be tracked by the IRS anymore? Yes is the answer, after the agreement is signed, v said "Keep or Return" spokes people. Nickles stammered out..Well who wouldn't join? The spokesman responded with a simple grin and said..indeed who wouldn't?

Keep an eye out for this new app and join as soon as humanly possible. If you see Nickles in the Portsmouth Kittery area ask him about the early in program as national entries are months into the future. Nickles says, five dollars goes a long way to get in early!!! To further the at home employment details, think of this..is betting on and tracking purchases a job ? ...and if there is no IRS evaluation can the 'possible' affect your current financial status? You be the judge!
