

True Identity

A local narcissist has broken new ground in the world of, “how you identify”... It's now legal and becoming totally popular... he is known as the “Man Who Married Himself”.

You heard right... he married himself, yup... wearing two wedding rings a, handsome engagement ring and sings “what a wonderful world ” all day long.

In our interview, our own Viva Kittery reporter Nells Bells got some candid answers to this new modern and “legal” concept..

Taxes for married people are less than singles and I have adopted some kids somewhere who I send 36 cents a day for “food and medicine”... So now I file married with 2 kids. Saves me about $28K a year.

While he was somewhat apprehensive about making that kind of commitment to himself.. He got some modern counseling and soon he saw “the light”... The bachelor party was great he laughed... he had to keep wondering if “I'm cheating on myself”..And when he realized he was .. he simply said to himself..”get over it ..its your bachelor party.”

So many things changed after the “honey moon” .. its like a new world being married he said. People seem to take you more seriously when you say “I'm married and have a couple of kids”. People ask me if you spend enough time with your kids and I simply can laugh now and say .. it seems like I never see them but they sure cost a lot. (snickering inside about my 36 cent a day donation to "my kids somewhere".. Then I round out the kid question with.. they call me baby daddy!

Its so gratifying to fit into the world as a married man. Then I found out I can file for a divorce and split my equity in half instead of pretending to give my money to a "charity" run by my lawyers!

I have found being married to myself to simply be an honest lifestyle in a turbulent and often seemingly chaotic world!
