

Funny Money

Another story of interest that Francoise picked up on .. along with the graffiti story is a new push in far away countries to start putting faces on the "back" of bills instead of the front of bills.

Francoise was sitting in a pre discussion meeting and found it interesting enough to report on.

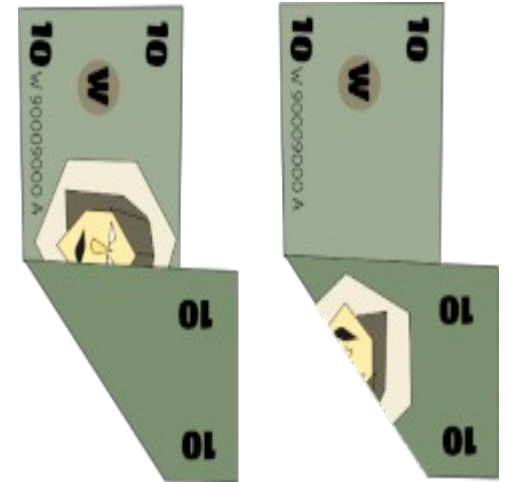

So..he observed.. in the middle of this meeting someone pointed out.. if you put the faces on the back of the bill..just like the front..how are people gonna know its the back of the bill? Why won't it appear the same.

Great question said one the of the new bill " backers".. interesting that they are called backers..because its a movement to put " people" behind the money instead of blatantly on the front!

Well the question was stated again..how is anyone gonna know its the back of the bill?

The answer.. as always..same education..simple simple simple ..refunding of the entire department of education with 800 trillion new dollars to hand out to people and educate them that when they see the person on the bill its now the " back" of the bill..not the front anymore!

You're kidding the guy said in total disbelief!

No.. no we truly are not. The printer will have a sticky note on the plates that show clearly that the new bill with the face..is clearly the back of the bill..

The guy stammered.. " a sticky note"??? That says ..its the back!!?

Yup.. simple huh?

And now trillions of new people "backed money" will flow into the economy while the bills with the faces on the front are recalled!

OMG.. was the last utterance from the outsider who just couldn't understand this new bill for some reason.

But they are sure that people want to keep their money will absolutely swear that the faces on their bills are in fact " on the back" of the bill!
